

OUR DEWEY SHOE

FOR MEN

at $3.00 A PAIR

IS A MARVEL OF CHEAPNESS.

It was the best shoe ever offered for $3.00 two years ago, but when the recent advance of 40c to 50c a pair is taken into consideration it places this shoe in a class all by itself.

Just Think of Buying---

A man's genuine Cordovan Shoe, goodyear welt soles, English back stays, silk stitched throughout, made as solid as leather can make it, on the latest style lasts,

For 3.00 a Pair.

Try to buy such a shoe anywhere else for $3.00 or even 3.50 and you will begin to realize how much of a BARGAIN our Dewey Shoe is.

There is only one trouble and that is, we have only about 400 pairs left and when they're gone, there'll be no more of them.

HOBART DEAD.

Vice President Succumbs To Heart Disease.

He is the Sixth Vice President Who Has Died While In Office.

New York, Nov. 21.—Garret A. Hobart, vice president of the United States, died at his home in Paterson, N. J. at 8:30 o'clock this morning. At his bedside were Mrs. Hobart, and his son, Garret A. Hobart, Jr., together with Dr. William K. Newton and his wife and private secretary.

Mr. Hobart's death had been expected for some hours. The beginning of the end came yesterday afternoon when there was a sudden failure of the heart and from this attack, Mr. Hobart never rallied. He had been sick for a long time, and had suffered frequently from heart failure, and his strength had been undermined. Gradually the failure of the heart's action became more apparent and soon after midnight last night, Mr. Hobart became unconscious. He remained in that condition until his death.

Mr. Hobart's death was due directly to angina pectoris, complicating myocarditis.

Vice President Hobart was born in Monmouth county, New Jersey, June 3, 1844. He entered the sophomore class of Rutgers college in 1860 and graduated in 1863, at the age of 19; he then taught school until he entered the law office of Socrates Tuttle of Paterson, N. J. He was admitted to the bar in 1869, and became the city counsel of Paterson in 1871. He was elected counsel for the board of Chosen Freemen in May, 1872, entered the legislature in 1873, was re-elected in 1874 and made speaker in 1876. His constituents sent him to the senate in 1879, and he was president of that body in 1881 and 1882.

He was delegate at large to the republican national convention in 1876 and again in 1880. He became a member of the national republican committee in 1884 and served until 1896, when he was nominated for vice president and elected. Since his election to the vice presidency Mr. Hobart has played an important part in political affairs.

The law applicable to the vice presidency was enacted January 19, 1896, by the 49th congress, first session. The main features were as follows:

"Be it enacted, etc., that in case of removal, death, resignation or inability of both the president and vice president of the United States, the secretary of State, or  secretary of the treasury, or  secretary of war, or  Attorney general or  secretary of the navy, or  or post master general, or  secretary of the interior shall act as president until the disability of the president or vice president is removed, or a president shall be elected."

The law further provides that when one of the above cabinet officers succeeds to the presidency, he shall call a special session of congress. A proviso limits the succession of those who would be eligible to the presidency under the terms of the constitution and who have been appointed with the advice and consent of the senate.

The effect of the law is not to provide a succession to the vice presidency, but merely to ensure a succession to the presidency.

By the death of Mr. Hobart, Senator William P. Frye of Maine, becomes president pro tempore of the senate and will discharge all the duties of the vice president as presiding officer of that body. The senate rules specifically provide that no election is necessary at the beginning of the session. Senator Frye accordingly will continue as presiding officer till the end of Presojourning in Brooklyn some years ago desired, on a Sabbath morning, to hear the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preach. He asked a little Urchin on the street to direct him to Mr. Beecher's Church. The little fellow said: "Mister, you see that crowd?" "I do," answered the gentleman. "Well, Mister, follow it and you'll get there."

If YOU want the best in—

Follow the crowd and you'll land in the right place. Were it not that we are awfully bashful we would tell you of the compliments showered upon us by the many who have looked over our stock.

Our windows to some extent give you an idea of what we have in stock. In passing our house take a peep; you will see stuff that will interest you.

We are sometimes asked, "Do people read and believe your advertisements?" Well, if you would have looked in on us in the past ten days (since the weather turned cold) you would have thought so.
